WILSON GIVES WARNING OF PREPAREDNESS COST

never finished; that it is always making and to be made. And there is at present upon us a crisis which seems to threaten to be a new crisis of division.

"We know that the war which is to ensue will be a war of spirits and not of arms. We know that the spirit of America is invincible, and that no man can abate its power, but we know that that spirit must upon occasion be asserted, and that this is one of the occasions. America is made up of all the nations of the world. Look at the rosters of the civil war. You will see names there drawn from almost every European stock. Not recently, but from the first. America has drawn her blood and her impulse from all the sources of energy that spring at the fountains of every race, and because she is thus compounded out of the peoples of the world, her problem is largely a problem of union all the time, a problem of compounding out of many elements a single triumphant force.

"The war in Europe has done a very natural thing in America. It has stirred the memories of men drawn from many of the belligerent states. It has renewed in them a national feeling which had grown faint under the soothing influences of peace, but which now flares up when it looks as if nation had challenged nation to a final reckoning, and they remember the nations from which they were sprung and know that they are in this life and death grapple. It is not singular, my fellow citizens, that this should have occurred, and up to a certain point it is not just that we should criticize it. We have no criticism for men who love the places of their birth and the sources of their origin. We do not wish men to forget their mothers and their fathers, their friends and their kindred, their long, laborious generations which have taken part in the building up of the strength and spirit of other nations. No man quarrels with that. From such springs of sentiment we all draw some of the handiwork inspirations of our lives. But all that we do criticize is that in some instances—they are not very numerous—but in some instances men have allowed this old ardor of another nationality to overshadow their ardor for the nationality to which they have given their new and voluntary allegiance. And so the United States has again to work out by spiritual process a new union, when men shall not think of what divides them, but shall recall what unites them, when men shall not allow old loves to take the place of present allegiances; when men must, on the contrary, transfer their old loves of love of country of their birth into the ardor of love for the country of their adoption and the principles which it represents.

America Over All.

"I have no harshness in my heart even for the extremists in this thing which I have been trying in moderate words to describe, but I summon them, and I summon them very solemnly, not to set their purpose against the purpose of America. America must come first in every purpose we entertain, and every man must count upon being cast out of our confidence, even if even if tolerance, who does not submit to that great ruling principle.

"But what are the purposes of America? Do you not see that there is another significance in the fact that we are made up out of all the peoples of the world? The significance of that fact is that we are not going to devote our nationality to the same mistaken aggressive purposes that some other nationalities have been devoted to; that because we are made up, and consciously made up, out of all the great family of mankind, we are champions of the rights of mankind. We are not only ready to cooperate, but we are ready to fight against any aggression, whether from without or from within. But we must guard ourselves against the sort of aggression which would be unworthy of America. We are ready to fight for our rights, when those rights are coincident with the rights of men and of humanity. It was to set these rights up, to vindicate them, to offer a home to every man who believed in them, that America created and her government set up. We have kept our doors open because we did not think we, in conscience, could close them against men who wanted to join their

Gas in the Stomach Is Dangerous

Physician Recommends the Use of Magnesia to Stop Acid Indigestion.
Sufferers from indigestion or dyspepsia should remember that the presence of gas or wind in the stomach almost invariably indicates that the stomach is troubled by excessive acidity. This acid causes the food to ferment and the fermenting food in turn gives rise to noxious gases which distend the stomach, hamper the normal functions of vital internal organs, cause acute headaches, interfere with the action of the heart, and charge the blood stream with deadly poisons, which in time ruin the health. Physicians say that to quickly dispel a dangerous accumulation of wind in the stomach and to stop the food fermentation which creates the gas, the acid in the stomach must be neutralized and that for this purpose there is nothing quite so good as a teaspoonful of pure bisulphate of magnesia taken in a little water immediately after meals. This instantly neutralizes the acid, thus stopping fermentation and the formation of gas, and enables the inflamed stomach to promote healthy digestion. work under natural conditions. Bisulphate of magnesia is obtainable in powder or tablet form from any drug store, but as there are many different forms, it is important that the physician's prescription should be distinctly asked for.—Adv.

25,000 Visit Arlington to Pay Tribute to the Dead

Approximately 25,000 persons yesterday made the pilgrimage to Arlington Cemetery to pay tribute to the country's dead. From early morning until long after the hour the services were scheduled to begin a constant stream of persons from Washington and surrounding district poured through the gates, arriving in vehicles of all descriptions.

The scene at the amphitheater was impressive. When Dr. A. J. Huntton called the assembly to order at 1 o'clock the seating capacity of the theater was taxed, a solid bank of persons ten and fifteen deep lined the sides of the tent and thousands of other unable to get within hearing distance of the speakers were forced to pass the time in reading the inscriptions on the tombs.

Seated on the platform were the President and Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret Wilson, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the President's military and naval aids, Cabinet officers, members of Congress and foreign diplomats. The President and Mrs. Wilson and his military aids, and Miss Margaret Wilson and Miss Helen Woodrow Bones motored to Arlington early in automobiles heavily laden with flowers. They arrived shortly before

1 o'clock and went immediately to the stage of the amphitheater. Bishop Alfred Harding in pronouncing the invocation prayed that the Divine Power support and strengthen the hands of the President in these days of stress. The presentation of the flag was made by Officer of the Day John Middleton. Rev. Henry N. Couden, the blind chaplain of the House of Representatives read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. George H. Slaybaugh, past department commander, read Gen. Logan's historic order establishing Memorial Day.

A more handful of the army that was mustered out in Washington a half century ago led the pilgrimage from Washington to Arlington. This remnant and veterans of Spanish war, led by the Marine Band and escorted by a battalion of the District National Guard started from Grand Army Hall at 9:30.

The old veterans represented nine G. A. R. posts and the old Guard, while the new veterans represented six camps. From the shoulders of the veterans waved battle grimed flags, side by side with new and untarnished ensigns.

As the band's "march" cheers came from thousands who had gathered in Pennsylvania avenue. The veterans marched from their hall to Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue where they boarded special cars for Arlington.

Heavens Grow Dark as Lusitania Floral Tribute Is Lowered to Water

A wreath of flowers bearing a broad ribbon inscribed with the single word "Lusitania" yesterday afternoon was lowered to the Potomac from the deck of the Charles Macalester in commemoration of the Americans who lost their lives in the Lusitania disaster.

The ceremony was brief, but impressive. As the steamer, crowded with passengers, slipped from her berth at the Seventh street wharve, and turned her bow down river, the wreath was lifted over the side and slowly let down until it rested on the waters, which carried it to sea. Word of the memorial had passed among the fifteen hundred passengers, and for a moment there was silence as they crowded the side of the vessel to see tribute paid to their fellow countrymen who lost their lives through the war.

As if in keeping with the spirit of the memorial, the sun was suddenly overcast by gray clouds as the wreath was lifted to the side, and a gusty rain began to fall.

Mrs. John A. Logan, the wife of Gen. Logan, who inaugurated the observance of Memorial Day, was prevented by illness from attending the ceremony. In her stead a committee of ladies of the D. A. R., Mrs. Wm. J. Weiss, president of the Legion of Loyal Women, Miss Ruth Ditch, Miss Louise Steinberg, and Mrs. Engel took part in the launching.

President, in Proclamation, Urges Flag Day Observance

President Wilson yesterday issued a proclamation urging special significance this year to be given the celebration of Flag Day, June 14.

The proclamation follows: "My Fellow Countrymen: Many circumstances have recently conspired to turn our thoughts to a critical examination of the conditions of our national life, of the influences which have seemed to threaten to divide us in interest and sympathy, of forces within and forces without that seemed likely to draw us away from the happy traditions of united purpose and action, of which we have been so proud.

"It has, therefore, seemed to me fitting that I should call your attention to the approach of the anniversary of the day upon which the flag of the United States was adopted by the Congress as the emblem of the Union, and to suggest to you that it can this year, and in the years to come, be given special significance, a day upon which we should direct our minds with a special desire of renewal to thought of the ideals and principles of which we have sought to make our great government the embodiment.

"I therefore suggest and request that force with ours in vindicating the claim of mankind to liberty and justice.

Wants No More Territory.

"America does not want any additional territory. She does not want any selfish advantage over any other nation in the world, but she does wish every nation in the world to understand what she stands for and to respect what she stands for.

"I have said that I believed that the people of the United States were ready to become partners in any alliance of the nations that would guarantee public right above selfish aggression. Some of the public prints have reminded me, as if I needed to be reminded, of what Gen. Washington warned us against. He warned us against untimely alliances. I still never myself consent to an entangling alliance; but I would gladly assent to a disentangling alliance, an alliance which would disentangle the peoples of the world from these combinations in which they seek their own separate and private interests, and unite the people of the world to preserve the peace of the world, upon a basis of common right and justice.

"We have been engaged recently, in discussing the processes of preparedness. It is possible for the United States to get ready only if the men of suitable age and strength will volunteer to get ready. I heard the President of the United States Chamber of Commerce report the other evening on a referendum to 750 of the chambers of commerce of the United States upon the question of preparedness, and he reported that 99 per cent of them had voted in favor of preparedness.

To Apply Acid Test.

"Very well now, we are going to apply the acid test to those gentlemen, and the acid test is this: Will they give the young men in their employment freedom to volunteer for this thing? I wish the referendum had included that, because that is of the essence of the matter. It is all very well to say that somebody else must prepare, but are the business men of this country ready themselves to lend a hand and sacrifice an interest in order that we may get ready? We shall have an answer to that question in the next few months. A bill is lying upon my table now ready to be signed which bristles all over with that interrogation point, and I want all the business men of the country to see that interrogation point staring them in the face.

"I have heard a great many people talk about universal training—universal voluntary training, with all my heart, if you wish it, but America does not wish anything but the complete and unqualified consent of the people of America. I for my part, do not entertain any serious doubt of the answer to these questions, because I suppose there is no place in the world where the compulsion of public opinion is more imperative than it is in the United States. You know yourself how you behave when you think nobody is watching. And now all the people of the United States are watching each other. There never was such a blazing spotlight upon the conduct and principles of every American as each one of us now walks and blinks in it.

"And as this spotlight sweeps its relentless rays across every square mile of the territory of the United States, I know a great many men, even when they do not want to, are going to stand up and say, 'Here.' Because America is roused, roused to a self-consciousness and a national self-consciousness such as she has not had in a generation. And this spirit is going out, conquering and to conquer until it may be in the providence of God, throughout the nation, and if possible in every community, the fourteenth day of June be observed as Flag Day with special patriotic exercises, at which means shall be taken to give significant expression to our thoughtful love of America, our comprehension of the great mission of liberty and justice to which we have devoted ourselves as a people, our pride in the history, and our enthusiasm for the political program of the nation, our determination to make it greater and purer with each generation, and our resolution to demonstrate to all the world, its vital union in sentiment and purpose, accepting only those as true companions who feel as we do the compulsion of this supreme allegiance.

Let us on that day rededicate ourselves to the cause of the nation, 'one and inseparable,' from which every thought that is not worthy of our fathers' first vows of independence, liberty and right shall be excluded, and in which we shall stand with united hearts for America which no man can corrupt, no influence draw away from its ideals, no force divide against itself, a nation significantly distinguished among all the nations of mankind for its clear, individual conception, alike and its duties and its privileges, its obligations and its rights."

MAY OPEN MOUNT VERNON.

Senator Asks Regents Not to Close Place Sundays.
If the sentiment of the United States Senate has any influence with the regents in control of Mount Vernon, that historic place will be open hereafter on Sunday.

Congress has no authority over Mount Vernon, but yesterday the Committee on the Library took favorable action on a resolution by Senator Phelan, of California, that seeks to throw open to the public the beauties of historic Mount Vernon every day in the week. The committee ordered that it be referred to the regents.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR LIVER

And It Will Take Care of Your Constipation.

The liver is supposed to furnish the proper amount of bile for the intestines. This bile has two purposes—to help digest in the intestines that part of your food which the stomach is not meant to digest and to act as nature's laxative and prevent constipation. It is plain to be seen then that oils and the ordinary laxatives which do not act on the liver give only temporary relief. If you want to get real and lasting results you've got to take the remedy that acts on the liver and causes it to furnish the bile which in turn acts on the bowels. The name of this simple but sure home treatment is Nature's Remedy—popularly known as NR Tablets.

An NR Tablet at night before retiring will tone up the stomach, put your liver to work and in the morning act thoroughly, but without griping, on the bowels. Nature's Remedy also relieves rheumatism, acts beneficially on the kidneys and purifies the blood.

No household should be without its box of NR Tablets—taken in time they will break up colds and prevent much sickness arising from disordered stomach or bowels.

Get a 25c box of NR Tablets and take one tonight—you'll feel better in the morning.

DOUBT ICE CREAM STORY.

The report circulated by a Chilean newspaper that an officer of the Tennessee poured ice cream over the head of a Chilean admiral and hurled his hat at the statue of another Chilean admiral at a dinner given in Valparaiso to members of Secretary McAdoo's party on their recent South American trip is ridiculed here.

Neither the State Department, Navy Department or any member of the McAdoo party has knowledge of the incident. Secretary of the Navy Daniels said last night that he regarded the story as pure fiction.

According to an Italian physician, love causes an intoxication of the nervous centers, producing a disease that, if not cured, may lead to neurasthenia, and even insanity.
